ANOTHER DAM BREAKS. Great Devastation in Hocking Valley Re-

Grove on the Hocking canal. The dam held in store a large body of water that supplied the lower levels of the canal. The heavy rains had filled the reservoir to the banks, when suddenly the dam gave way, and the water went out through the valley, taking with it every movable object.

For twenty miles the soil is plowed up, trees and flowers, crops and hundreds of live stock were swept away. No lives were lost because the houses are situated on a bluff that overlooks the valley, but the canal for miles is a wreck and thousands of feet of railroad track was washed away. SHOT IN THE DARK. A Deputy Sheriff and a Supposed Escape

Killed. CLEVELAND, (Ohio,) July 21st -Two prisoners, W. A. Smith and Richard N. Mansfield, broke from the county jail last night. Deputy Sheriff Goldsoll went to the west-ern part of the city where one of the men for the fellows.

About midnight a carriage containing two men passed along the street. The officers called to the occupants of he vehicle to stop. Several shots were exchanged and Goldsoli was fatally wounded. The carriage was driven rapidly away. An hour later the rig was found a mile from the place of the shooting. In the buggy was the dead body of one of the men. It was at first thought that the dead man was Smith, but those who know him failed to identify the corpse and the police are still in the dark. They think, however, the dead man was up to some mischief, for in the buggy were found two revolvers, a club, a screw-driver and a piece of rope The horse, which had been stolen in the eastern part of the city, was wounded.

The New York Evening Post cannot be charged with partiality toward railway managements. That journal has been taking this question of the competition of the Canadian Pacific Railway with American roads under consideration, and while it speaks as yet with conservative caution, it is very plain to discern that the Post is not prepared to accept the Boston idea, that New England must be concerned in the man who carries his umbrella horizonher desire to consort with the foreign road | tally beneath his arm should be shot on at the expense of home lines of transpor- the spot. This would be a very happy ending of the dispute if we had to deal merely with the fishery question, the Irish question, and the feelings stirred up by the Presidential campaign. But there is one thing more to be considered, and that is whether we can allow the Canadian roads, not equality merely with our own roads, but an advantage over them in this, that the former are not subject to the long and short beul dause of the Commerce Act, while the latter are. The Canadian roads can take through traffic at as low rates as they choose, and recoup themselves by higher rates on their local traffic. The Portland Press thinks that although this policy is open to them, they will not adopt it, because such a course would create a public sentiment in the Dominion that "would demand and compel some regulations to put an end to the practice." This its walls. This is a matter, of course, is a trifle hazy, regarded as a condition for regulating the railway traffic of several millions of people. PROPULSION OF VESSELS.

Dr. Jackson of New York and Dr Fleischer of London have each invented what they claim to be a new means of tial in the selection of agents and assistpropelling boats at a very high rate of speed, claiming that even thirty miles an hour may be attained by a heavy passenger vessel. The invention consists simply of ejecting through a pipe but little below the surface, a stream of water under pressure of 2,550 pounds to the square inch. They differ only in the application of the jet at different points below the water line. in the one case the ejection being either side the stern and the prow, and in the other amidships. We do not think clusion Act, and who lost, is about to be we are mistaken when we say that this is sent back to China. His bondsmen have no new invention. BALTZ' SORE FINGER. It Costs the Oakland's a Very Dear Game of Ball at Stockton. STOCKTON, July 21st .- By defeating the Oaklands by a score of 22 to 6 the Stocktons have won six consecutive games, and are ance, and are much more creditable to him now tied with Oakland for second place-It was a poor exhibition of ball-playing, and the large crowd in attendance at the commencement had dwindled away at the different. Then the fishery question was any time without the umbrella accompaniin to pitch for the Oaklands, and thirteen a girl—a version of the story, by the way, close. Baltz had a sore finger, but was put had some quarrel with Bridgetower about pending, and the statesmen of Maine were ment, he ought to be forgiven for so little a hits, fourteen bases on balls, and two wild which is not Beethoven's. Harper pitched a record game, having eleven strike-outs, and being found for only four hits. Following is the score:

Stockton has now won her sixth successiv ame, and disputes second place with Oak land. San Francisco comes down a peg, and Sacramento respectively bring up the rear. A Rattling Amateur Game. Santa Rosa, July 21st.—The Santa Rosas badly defeated the Burlingtons of the State Amateur League to-day. The home team put up a game of ball that would have made the big clubs hustle to surpass. Roxburg, late of the Sacramentos, did the back-stop work for the visitors, but was greatly surpassed by Pace for the home team, who caught gilt-edge ball from start to finish. Callen was an enigma to the visitors, and they could absolutely do nothing with his delivery. His work of to-day could not be called that of an amateur. Cassiday pitched well for the first half of the game, but the home team got onto his delivery finally and rapped him pretty hard. In the last balf of the eighth Roxburg was slightly injured, which delayed the game for a few minutes, but he resumed his position. The Burlingtons not only proved themselves ball-players, but gentlemen as well. on the field. Score: Santa Rosas, 10; Burlingtons, 4. Batteries—Santa Rosas, Callen and Pace; Burlingtons, Cassidy and Roxburg. Base-hits off-Callen, 5; off, Cassidy, 8.

THE COLOR OF BIRDS.

How it May be Affected by the Use of Cayenne Pepper. Dr. Sauermann, whose high reputation species of the feathered family. These investigations were undertaken in connection with the observed fact that canaries he feathers of the old birds | Haute Express.

was not affected at all, although a considerable amount of the pepper was given at different times, extending over an interval of several weeks. Moisture was found to facilitate the change of color to a ruddy hue, which was again discharged under the influence of sunlight or of a cold, dry atmosphere. The whole of the pepper is not required to produce the change, a por-tion of it being quite inactive, as for example the piperin and several extractives; similarly the red coloring matter alone had no effect on the color of the feathers. It is rather the triolein, which occurs in the pepper in large quantities, together with the characteristic pigment, which brings about the change of color by holding the red pigment of the pepper in solution. Glycerine may be used instead of triolein to bring about the same result. which Francis Hanford lost his life at the muzzle of a pistol wielded by Sullivan, shaking his pencil at him threateningly, and gard to the feeding of birds with aniline that he has felt it necessary to write and fined him $10. Goodenough swallowed his colors. The red pigment of the pepper is also stored up in the egg yolk as well as in the feathers. The first appearance of this colored pigment in the yolk can be obment dissolved in fat. Continuing this diet for forty-eight hours will result in the Two. That [The Gentleman's Magazine.] That strait-laced gentleman, Haydn, whose pious habit of inscribing his scores with bits of reverent Latin will go down to posterity, and who, if this failed, would always be held sacred for his oratorio "The Creation"-even he fell in love with Mlle. Boselli, despite his wife and his piety. He had her portrait painted, and satisfied all her little whims and fancies which, like those of all prime donne, were not, of course, inexpensive ones. Good old, but inconsistent Haydn! Remembering the predilection his wife-Keller, the barber's daughter—had for priests and monks, he cannot well be blamed for seeking consolation in the society of one of his most charming singers. It is to be hoped he stopped here, though, from quite a famous compliment which he paid Mrs. Billington, it is to be feared he possessed the knack of ingratiating himself into the favor of the fair sex generally. Reynolds had painted the songstress as Cecilia listen-ing to celestial music. "Yes," said Haydn, upon being asked for his opinion, "it is in deed a beautiful picture—just like her but—what a mistake." "Where?" inquired the painter. "Why, you have painted her listening to the angels, when you ought to have represented the angels istening to her."

By way of extenuation for Haydn, i must be admitted that all the master musicians have been frail in the matter of love and beauty. Beethoven's love letters constitute quite a study in passionate endu than the story of his erasing the young English musician Bridgetower's name from the dedication of the famous sonata in A and substituting that of Kreutzer, a man whom he had never seen, because he had know, pined away for George Sand; Dussek was carried off by a Polish Princess Stradella lost his life through becoming enamored of Hortensia, a strikingly beautiful Roman lady; Marcello became the victim of a hopeless passion for Leonora Manfrotti; Mark Smeaton, an English musician of the sixteenth century, paid the block penalty on Tower Hill for an indiscreet lingering after Anne Bolevn: Bellini expired of a broken heart for a sweetheart whose father would not let her have him; .30 6 4 4 27 14 5 Leonardo da Vinci died at the hand of his mistress; and there are endless other instances not less tragic-others happier in every way-arising out of this apparently inseparable union of love and music. Fac-Simile Telegraph. The fac-simile telegraph, by which manuscripts, maps or pictures may be transmit ted, is a species of the automatic method in which the receiver is actuated synchron ously with its transmitter. By Lenoir's method a picture or map is outlined with insulating ink upon the cylindrical surface of a rotating drum which revolves under a point having a slow movement along the axis of the cylinder, and thus the conducting point goes over the cylindrical surface in a spiral path. The electrical circuit will be broken by every inkmark on the cylinder which is in this path, and thereby corresponding marks are made in a spiral line by an ink-marker upon a drum at the receiving end. To produce these outlines it is only necessary that the two drums be rotated in unison. This system is of little utility, there being no apparent demand for fac simile transmission particularly at so great an expense of speed, for it will be seen that instead of making a character of the alphabet by a very few separate pulses, as is done by "Bee's" attorney. [1t*] ELI MAYO. Morse, the number must be greatly in creased. Many dots become necessary to show the outlines of the more complex characters. The pantelegraph is an intersting type of the fac-simile method. In this form the movements of a pen in the writer's hand produce corresponding movements of a pen at a distant station, and thereby a fac-simile record.

BALING HAY. N ORDER TO TEST THE DIFFERENCE IN

Bale kope, about which there is much discussion, we to-day used one coil Eastern-nade rope, 69 lbs, which baled 67 bales hay, weighing 8½ tons, taking about 7 lbs rope per ton, and one coil of TU-BS CORDAGE CO.'S make, 57 lbs, which baled 88 bales, weighing 11½ tons, taking 5 lbs per ton. These facts prove that it takes about 40 per cent. more of Eastern rope to bale a ton of hay han it does of the Tubbs Rope. We used six strands to the bale and not a strand of the Tubbs Rope broke.

The speaker had stated that, in his esti-Christian science was ever disposed to bring within determined lines the truth which liberal Christianity is willing to entertain in its glorious suggestiveness, and so went on to say, as far as anything can be demonstrated to be a science, liberal Christianity is willing to give it countenance; but as an intelligent lady once said to me, to call that science which possesses none of its characteristics is simply a contradiction in terms. I spoke of some things in religion, in science and in philosophy which are felt to be true as speculations, and which furnish a foundation to build a spiritual belief upon, but which cannot from their very nature be brought within lines of positive demonstration. Take first that glorious conception that Jesus is a natural fact, an illustration of the highest law of nature, of the supremacy of spirit over flesh, of mind over matter. Here is a theory of truth that lifts us to that altitude of thought on which we can conceive that by mere access of moral power such power as by purity of life we are each capa-ble of acquiring many things in this world that resist the touch of any less subtle influence will yield to exalted character, as though swayed by a wand of mighty

Such a belief held tentatively and speculatively, but reverently, makes Jesus our elder brother, a man of like passions with ourselves, not separate from us exception his exaltation of essential being, and so in-cludes us with him as chi'dren of one common race, and makes us equally with him mon race, and makes us equally with him sharers in the race's possibilities. But organized labor and the general public not Christien science has not been contented to stop with this grand and lofty confession of belief. It has abandoned one questionof belief. It has abandoned one questionable teaching to take up immediately with able teaching to take up immediately with another. Jesus is not a God in the old actual that nearly all the work is sent to San cepted sense, but He is a man possessed to all intents and purposes of superhuman powers; the secret which gave him control over the vast arcana of nature was his ex- riches San Francisco to that extent while clusively, and has perished with him, and depriving the tailors of Sacramento of emso we can no more imagine ourselves as ployment. To magnify this mind of ours, to teach us that the spring of all action, the fountain of all thought, the seat of health and disease is there, is surely inspiring and ennobling and calculated to fix our religious faith upon firmer foundations. But when we try to trace this inter-communication between the mind and the body to its mibetween the mind and the body to its mibetween the mind and the body to its minutest function, we find that what may be deserve. The slightest reasoning will show true as a theory, is not capable of being absolutely demonstrated, or, at least, that they are themselves the very worst enemies of home industry. In of knowledge? Here again I feel that Christian science would limit a truth which liberal Christianity would simply tempt to recover their lost ground. In this way they are endeavoring to wage a war against a firm which is the most extensive, aggressive, popular, and best which liberal Christianity would simply hold for its inspiring suggestiveness. Because the knowledge already obtained of west of the Missouri river, and which has how far mind controls the body cannot be in-definitely extended, no spiritual implication wards of 600 white, skillful and wellis therefore lost. Or take, lastly, that datum of philosophy—that our knowledge of the external world is only a relative knowledge of his work at any salary. HIS LAST SWIM.

Louis Gerbacher Ventures Into the River and is Drowned. Yesterday a party composed of Louis Gerbacher, C. H. Lutterkort and P. Conrad went down the river to a point about three miles below the city to spend the day in fishing and resting from their labors of the week. Other parties joined them, and after fishing for some time Gerbacker and Lutterkort went down the river-bank a short hand and ran into the alley and disapdistance for the purpose of taking a swim.

In a short time Lutterkort returned to where the rest of the party were resting under the trees and announced that his comrade was drowned. It seems that Gerbacher was the first to enter the water, and search made for his body, but it was not recovered.

Deceased was from Baden, Germany, and was aged about 25 years. He was a tailor and was employed by E. G. Ebert, on J street, near Sixth.

Rough-and-Tumble. About midnight last night James Donley and Frank Reynolds engaged in a desperate fight in front of the California House on Front street, and Reynolds was severely beaten. His assailant ran off, but was caught by officer Arlington and special of-ficer May on Second street and taken to the lock-up. Reynolds was found to have a very ugly wound over one eye, but it was thought that his injury is more painful than serious.

Caught With His Plunder. Yesterday afternoon the proprietor of the Roma Hotel, on Second street, caught a fellow plundering the rooms of his lodgers, and turned him over to officer Scanlan. At the police station the fellow gave his name as Thomas O'Brien, and was booked on a charge of burglary in the second degree. When caught he had several articles of plunder in his possession. He is a tough-looking customer.

Started Up Again. A little after 2 o'clock yesterday morning the smoldering embers of the Third street fire started up afresh, and a police officer turned in an alarm. Chief O'Meara caused a stream to be turned upon the blaze and soon had it extinguished. The fire department deserves credit for the manner in which the original fire was handled, as the labors of the firemen were seriously interfered with by the wooden awnings and rear porches.

THE VIRY BEST ADVERTISEMENT OF OUR GOODS WOULD BE THE GOODS THEM-selves could they be sent around for general inspection. As this is impossible, we fall back on the faithful types to assist us to describe, in some measure, the chief feature of our stock. We aim to satisfy all classes of buyers, and our stock, therefore, includes the Variety of Grades which have correspondingly Varied Prices. We desire to be known for cheapness, but we handle no cheap goods; that is to say, we give even in Low Prices the very best article the market affords for the money. It is a shot-sighted policy for any merchant to make a reputation for low-priced goods at the expense of his reputation for values. No article is really cheap which will not return the buyer the full value of the money expended in its purchase. Our steady aim is to satisfy buyers, not only by Alluring Bargains, but by the satisfaction that comes in goods. The welcomed at our store.

Christine Nilsson, the Celebrated Vocalist, is Growing Quite Deaf.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE RECORD-UNION.]

NILSSON'S AFFLICTION.

The Gifted Songstress Partially Deaf, the Result of Illness. LONDON, July 21st.-Christine Nilsson is partially deaf, the result of illness. The admirers of this gifted songstress no doubt are sorry to hear of her affliction, for her beautiful voice has endeared her to many. Christine was born at Hussaly, Wexio, Sweden, August 3, 1843, Her father was a peasant, but a musician like wise, leader of the choir of the parish church and a performer on the violin. He taught his son Carl how to play, and Christine, while a child, would pick out for herself on the instrument the tunes she heard her brother play. In the course of time her voice and musical intelligence became an attraction in the neighborhood of her home, and Christine was soon heard singing in country fairs whither her father had taken her for the purpose. Thornerhjelm, Magistrate of Ljanby, having heard her sing, offered to provide for her musical education. She was accordingly placed under the instructions of Mlle. Valerius, who afterward became Baroness of Lenhusen. Her removal to Stockholm, where she studied under Franz Berwald, succeeded, from whence she went to Paris, in October, 1864, at the Theater Lyrique, Paris, in Verdi's "Traviata." It was a success. and she subsequently appeared in the same theater in "Don Giovanni" and as Astra flammante in Mozart's "Magic Flute."

The Shah Loses His Bag of Diamonds i a London Cab.

NEW YORK, July 21st .- The London ca blegram to the Sun says: The Shah still goes on sight-seein though his unlucky Majesty is getting very tired of it. He goes to sleep more and more, misses his engagements and occa sionally protests against being taken away from something that he likes. He does no want to go to Glagsow or to stay at othe places, but, as a globe-trotter, he is bound to globe-trot, although he is a King, and he keeps going ahead.

storm, and some of his attendants have had a much worse one. Four of these dark Persian gentlemen are intrusted with the care of a black leather bag, which contains about $5,000,000 worth of the Shah's best jewels. The fact has come to light that when the Shah arrived at Hatfield, Lord Salisbury's place, the bag of jewels was missing and not one of the four unlucky attendants could find it. A special train was sent back to London, and after a long hunt the bag of diamonds, rubies and so on, was found in the royal stables in the boot of a drag, which had carried the Shah's luggage to the railroad station, a wonderful opportunity for London's professional thieves. When the four Persians intrusted with the jewels recovered the bag they actually kissed it and embraced it and carried it off to the Shah, all holding on to it together. Their fate on returning to Persia if they had lost these jewels is not pleasant to con-

The confidence in the Shah's moral char acter is becoming more and more under mined. It is well-known that he brought with him one young Circassian girl, whom he had received as a present from his Minister in Constantinople, and this was doors. The King of Saxony and Royalties thought quite moderate on his part and did were present. There is an unprecedented not call forth any special outcry from the British matron, but now it is rumored that, hesides the Circassian to which he confesse the Shah has two specimens from hi harem going about with him dressed in

Station and said he had committed the murders—he did not appear to know whether eight or nine—was given a hearing yesterday. The testimony of his lodging-house keeper was that Brodie was in his room from 11 o'clock Tuesday night until noon on Wednesday. Brodie proved untruthful on other material points also, but he insisted so strenuously that he was the Ripper that he was held on his own confession of being the murderer of Alice Mackenzie, though the charge against him was that he was a wandering lunatic. He said to the Magistrate: "Do I look like sollier, and as sane as any man in this Court, I can assure you." His appearance belied his words.

John Royal, the man arrested on the charge of attempting to dissect Nora Brown on the Surrey side of the Thames this morning, was remanded for a week. Nobody thinks that he is the Ripper.

A MATTER OF CHOICE.

Dana, of the New York Sun. was asked whether port wine did not bring on the gout. He replied that he thought it did, but that the man who would not prefer to suffer a few twinges of the gout rather than give up his port wine wasn't a man after his heart.

Many things like this are a matter of choice, and we really believe that we are justified in saying that those who will not, in the face of the testimony which we can offer, try ATHLOPHOROS when they have Neuralgia or Rheumatism, really choose to keep the rheumatism rather than alter their opinions.

Ath-lo-pho-ros, $1.00 per Bottle, at all Drug Stores.

WITH THIS REMEDY PERSONS CAN CURE VV themselves without the least exposure, change of diet, or change in application to business. The medicine conta ns nothing that is of the least injury to the constitution. Ask your druggist for it. I am satisfied that Cancer is hereditary in my family. My father died of it, a sister of my mother died of it, and my own sister died of it. My feelings may be imagined, then, when the horrible disease made its appearance on my side. It was a malignant Cancer, eating inwardly in such a way that it could not be cut out. Numerous remedies were used for it, but the Cancer grew steadily worse, until it seemed that I was doomed to follow the others of the family. I took Swift's Specific, which, from the first day, forced out the polson and continued its use until I had taken several bottles, when I found myself well. I know that S. S. cured me. winston, N.
